February 13, 2002 LB 185, 1033, 1101, 1143, 1203, 1212, 1239

talking about preemption there was a fundamental issue that was not touched on. Preemption occurs when a federal rule or regulation which has the force of law takes the place of and nullifies any enactment by a state on the same issue. The courts are not quick to say that preemption exists by interpretation, by implication, or by suggestion. I have my light on again because I can't finish what I want to say on this opportunity to speak.
